Do you need time to develop and make materials for your child or student with autism spectrum disorder? Do you have children who learn best with visual supports? This FREE workshop is designed for you!

Come and spend time with the NIA Autism Team to develop individualized visual supports such as schedules, daily routines, communication systems, and academic tasks. Make work systems for reading, math, social studies and science, self-care routines, homework, or household chores.

Browse selections from the NIA Autism Resource Library, or use Boardmaker. You will have time to ask questions and increase your knowledge about Autism Spectrum Disorders and using visual supports.

Bring a camera to take photos of ideas for visual supports to make later. Bring a list of things you are currently working on with your child or student—we'll use this list as a starting point for possible visual supports!!

Teachers and paraprofessionals are welcome!
Parents, family members, and caregivers are welcome!
